

October 8, 2009 7-8 PM
Reception 6:30-7 PM

KU Continuing Education
1515 St. Andrews Drive

Free event for the public

more info:
Karen Henry 864-0756
kahenry@ku.edu

Julie Sergeant
assistant director for research in the Office of Aging and Long Term Care at KU's School of Social Welfare. Dr. Sergeant's expertise includes home and community-based options for long term care needs and life course transition.

Dory Sabata
clinical assistant professor at the University of Kansas Medical Center, Department of Occupational Therapy Education. Dr. Sabata's current research interests involve understanding how environmental features and assistive technology can maximize occupation for people with disabilities, including aging populations at home and in the community.

David Ekerdt
director of the KU Gerontology Center and professor of sociology. His research specialties are the transition from work to retirement and the management of possessions in later life. He is editor-in-chief of the four-volume Macmillan Encyclopedia of Aging.

Keith Diaz Moore
associate professor and chair of architecture at KU. Dr. Diaz Moore specializes in the area of environmental design for the elderly with dementia and is the author of the award-winning book, Designing a Better Day: Guidelines for Adult and Dementia Day Services Centers.

KU Life Span Institute Community Conversation

Co-Sponsored by the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute and Douglas County Coalition on Aging

Good Places for Later Life

What we are Learning at KU about Residential Design, Downsizing and Choices

University of Kansas experts in architecture, gerontology, social welfare and occupational therapy share insights from their research on improving where and how we live in later life

